

Copyright of Geographic Information Systems Association

1. This regulation specifies the handling of the copyright of papers etc. (GIS - Theory and Application, postings of the academic lecture papers collected by this society or co - hosted etc) posted at the society.
2. As a general rule, copyright on papers etc posted to the Society belongs to the Society from the time when the final manuscript is posted to the Society.
3. 2. Regarding the academic lecture paper collection co - organized by the society, we will consult with co - organizations on attribution of copyright.
4. 3. If the principle of the preceding paragraph can not be applied due to special circumstances, the copyright will be offered to the submitting desk to that effect at the time of posting. The copyright in that case will be handled after consultation between the author and the society.
5. Authors do not mind that the authors themselves can use the articles of their own in the form of copying, translation, etc., for the articles or the like that they have contributed. In addition, after the publication of the society's publication, authors can be posted on the author's individual website (including the site of the author's affiliation organization). However, in any case, you must specify the citations involved in the publications of the society at the time of publication.
6. In the event that a paper or the like in which the Society has copyright infringement problems of copyrights and other rights and interests of third parties, the author of the said article and so on carries no responsibility.
7. This regulation specifies the handling of the copyright of papers etc. (GIS - Theory and Application, postings of the academic lecture papers collected by this society or co - hosted etc) posted at the society.
8. As a general rule, copyright of papers etc submitted to the Society belongs to the Society from the time when the final manuscripts are submitted to the Society.
9. 2. Regarding the academic lecture paper collection co - organized by the society, we will consult with co - organizations on attribution of copyright.
10. 3. If the principle of the preceding paragraph could not be applied due to special circumstances, description files about the copyright would be handed in to the submitting desk at the time of submission. The copyright in that case will be handled after consultation between the author and the society.
11. According to the submitted papers, it doesn't mind if the authors use the articles of their own in the form of copying, translation, etc.. In addition, after the society's publications were released, articles can be posted on the author's individual website (including the site of the author's affiliation organization). However, in any case, citations involved in the

